

Robin Kumoluyi
Vice President
Global Quality Services

Robin Kumoluyi is the Vice President, Global Quality Services, at Johnson & Johnson. She has responsibility to define, lead and execute strategic direction and oversight of the J&J Quality Policies and associated processes across Johnson & Johnson.

Robin is a visionary Quality & Compliance Leader and Change Agent, and is skilled to craft complex quality management strategies that enable multi-billion-dollar matrix organizations. Robin has over 30 years' experience and has held senior positions within quality, R&D and manufacturing compliance both in the pharmaceutical, Biotech, and food industries. Her experience encompasses a wide portfolio of product types including OTC, biological, pharmaceutical, devices, veterinary, nutraceutical and food and beverage products.

Robin believes that it is important to contribute to the wellbeing of others. It is for this reason that she chose to work in the pharmaceutical industry and, more specifically, within quality, with a passionate understanding that patients and customers must have access to quality effective medicines. Her belief also carries over to her management style which is collaborative and empowering. Robin knows that having a position of leadership comes with the responsibility to enable, respect and coach others to reach their full potential which is good for the individual as well as the organization at large. This is a responsibility she fully embraces and considers the most rewarding part of her work.

Robin holds a Bachelor's degree in Biological Sciences (specializing in microbiology) from Rutgers University and a Master's Degree in Quality Assurance and Regulatory Affairs from Temple University School of Pharmacy.

Robin resides in North Carolina with her husband and son.